

National Homebrewers Conference

Written by Mark Emiley

Monday, 13 July 2009 09:04 -

The Washington Homebrewers Association is back from representing strong at the National Homebrewers Conference held in Oakland. We brought down a bar, served beers through cappuccino machines with hops and coffee, had about 29 kegs on-site, served in the hospitality suite, presented our decoction brews, served Jim Brischke's awesome salmon dip, and basically just had a great time. You can see photos of our experiences on our Facebook site here.

We are working on putting together a team for bringing the conference to Washington. We will need lots of help from lots of people when the time comes. To get involved right now, please contact Tom Schmidlin.