One of the fastest ways to learn something is to see it first hand. While we encourage you to brew with a friend, meet with a club, or take a class through a local store, you can now find out how to brew at your convenience on the web.

This video series will take you through an overview of homebrewing, introduction to your ingredients, explanation of required and optional equipment, a description of beer styles, and then step you through the entire extract homebrewing process from start to finish.

You steep specialty grains, add malt extract, put in your hops, cool down the wort, rehydrate yeast, mix everything together, ferment the beer, and finally bottle it up.

This is one simple way to do extract brewing. There are plenty of other techniques as well as all-grain. If you would like to contact the brewer in the video, you can do so here.

PLEASE NOTE THAT THE VIDEOS IN THESE SERIES ARE OUT OF ORDER. WE'VE TRIED TO HAVE THEM FIX IT BUT THEY WON'T.
